ABOUT

There is an extensive need for greater development in health economics capacity, as well as greater collaboration between health economics researchers and policy makers in Alberta. The Institute of Health Economics, in partnership with the health economists from the Universities of Alberta and Calgary, and Alberta Health, have developed the Network of Alberta Health Economists (NOAHE).

OBJECTIVES

- To improve health economics capacity in Alberta.
- To facilitate collaboration between the health economics researchers.
- To bring together users and producers of health economics evidence and analysis.
- To serve as an organized collective resource for health system decision makers.
- To promote integrated knowledge translation for the health system stakeholder community across Alberta more effectively.

NOAHE

Network of Alberta Health Economists

BENEFITS TO MEMBERSHIP

Invitation to attend networking events and presentations with Canadian and international leaders in the field of health economics and health policy.

The Network helps match health economists and policy leaders, based on experience and expertise, for projects of interest, as appropriate.

All NOAHE members are showcased, along with any appropriate publications, on the NOAHE website.

NOAHE GRADUATE & SCHOLAR AWARDS

NOAHE's awards build health economics capacity by bringing together aspiring health economists with policy leaders and researchers from academic, non-profit, and government sectors.

The NOAHE Internships and Fellowships provide opportunities for successful recipients from the University of Calgary and the University of Alberta to gain practice-based experience working on either their own project of interest, and/or on projects identified by program sponsors as Alberta Health priorities.

Application submissions open in September every year - visit noahe.ca for details.

NOAHE EVENTS

Alberta Health Economics Study Group

The Alberta Health Economics Study Group (AHESG) aims to bring together Alberta-based health economists for a day of lively discussion about current research, and will provide an opportunity for networking, in a study group atmosphere.

Health Economics and Technology Assessment Rounds

This series aims to advance health economics research and support evidence-based health policy, to improve the healthcare outcomes of Canadians.

NOAHE Student Seminar Series

The NOAHE Student Seminar Series seeks to promote discourse related to health economics research, allowing students to gain insight into a range of university departments.
